

Kalamunda Aged Care Advisory Committee (KACAC)
Draft Position Statement for Residential Aged Care Submission Table

Malcolm Roberts	I have read through the City's submission and think it seems an appropriate response. I have no real knowledge of the technical planning issues and accept the officers' comments. I would like it made clear to the Government that if it hopes to achieve a consistent, fair, efficient and effective process throughout the State it needs to be provide clear leadership on what its goals are for aged care accommodation, how to achieve these at a local government level co-ordinated with appropriate State departments, and giving detailed guidance for each step of the process, so that all local governments adopt the same processes and standards to achieve appropriate outcomes for their area and developers have consistency across the board and approval processes are facilitated and made more rapid.
Malcolm Roberts	Rather than try to address all the issues I would like to say that we are aware that the City of Kalamunda has made a comprehensive response, which we support. I plan to reiterate my concern that the State Govt needs provide clear leadership and to be more definitive on what it is trying to achieve if commonality on policy amongst local govts is to be achieved.
Emma	I believe the submission has come together well, I too cannot comment on the technical planning. I also support Malcoms comments for clear leadership and direction and more clarity on expectation, the direction for community and developers needs to be clear.

Commented [SB1]: Hi Peter,
Did you want to include names?

	I believe there would be a number of learnings from the current bush fire disaster on the east coast in regard to the risk in zoning support services in environments with only single access points.
Ray Maher	Some brief comments on the submission: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Overall I am in support of the City's views as expressed. 2. A few comments: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> a. I agree that the definitions are fine, and the focus on a strategic approach is essential b. I think we need to see if this "new approach" will in fact "fast track" approval and developments, and wherever possible support efforts to do this (even if it might mean a disregard for current policy and practice). c. As indicated I believe there is a need to more fully explore the large number of emerging new approaches to aged care and aged accommodation- especially joint use, community access and shared resourcing. These new options are the future and should form the basis of any new activity. It is crucial that the initiatives being pursued by aged care providers are supported and included in any new guidelines or policies - local, State and Federal. d. I agree that there are a number of special conditions that may apply to rural and remote communities but also that these should not be the drivers of this wider approach. Many small communities, by effectively harnessing the resources, skills and concerns of their population, are able to very effectively engage in positive and cost effective aged care accommodation and services - e.g Kulin. e. I am not very supportive of private-public projects as they often throw up unforeseen complications and future limitations on service provision - and are often ultimately expensive. I believe they should be discouraged.

	Thank you for the opportunity to have some input into the City's response.
Bev Love	Thanks to all involved in developing the City's response to the Draft Position Statement. The City's response where it states that the draft policy could consider examples of where aged care has worked well - and concludes it does not address the looming problem etc - could that go in a more prominent position? Is it worth adding "evidence based innovative ways" etc? At the moment it's the section after Colliers international advice (pg 9).

Expected delivery dates for all are subject to change, except Karingal and Valencia, as even if they start now it will be about 2025, and Villa Maria probably 2030 or so. The current dates suggest the Aged Care problems may be solved in the next couple of years, which we know is unlikely.
